Message from the Chairwoman

Dear colleagues

For the fourth consecutive year, Tunis Stock Exchange's flagship index has maintained its rebound, despite a still difficult national economic context and multiple global uncertainties that are disrupting investor decisions.

Internationally, the general context is marked by a gradual decline in inflation and interest rates, prompting the World Bank to revise its global economic growth forecast upward to 2.7%. This trend is expected to continue through 2025 and 2026. This positive forecast is explained by the consolidation of commercial activities and investments, as well as the continued decline in the rate of inflation.

In this regard, equity markets, particularly in developed markets, continued the positive momentum of 2023 with an 18.67% increase in 2024 according to the MSCI World Index, driven by the strong performance of US equities. This performance was the result of investor behavior, with investors becoming increasingly confident about a soft landing for global growth, boosted by resilient corporate earnings and the cycle of rate cuts initiated by the major central banks.

et au cycle de baisse de taux entamé par les principales banques centrales.

At the national level, economic activity improved during 2024, following a very difficult period that weighed heavily on all sectors, particularly the financial sector.

In this context, economic growth stood at 1.4% for 2024, compared with near stagnation in 2023 (0.2%) and a promising outlook for 2025, with growth expected to reach 3.2%, supported by a widespread recovery in most economic sectors, particularly agriculture.

The pace of growth in our economy is still insufficient to hope to redress the main indicators that are still lagging behind, namely: a structural imbalance in public finances, double-digit unemployment (16%), very high inflation, and very limited national savings, which have a heavy impact on investment.

Despite the persistence of these difficult economic conditions over a long period, the financial market showed resilience during 2024 and confirmed the resilience it has displayed over the past three years.

This strong performance on the stock market is undoubtedly attributable to the strong performance of most sectors represented on the Tunis Stock Exchange. In this regard, the activity indicators of listed companies for the 12 months of 2024 (71 out of 74) show an overall increase in revenue of 3.2% compared to 2023, reaching 25.1 billion dinars compared to 24.3 billion dinars. 75% of the companies that published their indicators (53 out of 71) improved their revenues.

On another front, as part of the digitization of its services and in response to the expectations of its stakeholders, the Tunis Stock Exchange, after consultation with financial market structures, has created an electronic platform for filing registration documents called "SDX-Bourse ." This highly secure platform is intended for stock market intermediaries to facilitate the process of filing registration applications, improve processing times, and limit travel. The platform offers stock market intermediaries the service of remotely filing and tracking the progress of registration applications.

In terms of security and stakeholder confidence, the Tunisia Stock Exchange has obtained ISO 22301:2019 certification, the international standard for business continuity management. This achievement makes the Tunisia Stock Exchange the first Tunisian company to be awarded this certification, demonstrating its ongoing commitment to operational excellence and effective risk management.

This international recognition is in line with Tunis Stock Exchange's ongoing efforts to strengthen its corporate governance and adopt international best practices in risk management and business continuity.

In the same vein, Tunis Stock Exchange has also renewed its ISO 27001 certification for information security management and ISO 20000-1 certification for service quality. These certifications attest to the company's ongoing commitment to complying with the highest globally recognized standards.

In terms of governance, the Board of Directors decided to review and update its governance framework to bring it into line with best practices. To this end, it set up an ad hoc committee composed of three directors and a member of senior management. The committee's work resulted in a set of recommendations that take into account the assessment of the current state of Tunis Stock Exchange governance and the analysis of the results of the questionnaire sent to the members of the Board of Directors. The Board of Directors approved the creation of a kit that includes the director's charter and the internal rules of the Board of Directors, as well as the adoption of an annual evaluation system for its work.

With regard to sustainability, Tunis Stock Exchange stepped up its efforts in 2024 through active participation in several events and initiatives launched by local authorities and the completion of the first phase of training initiated with the International Finance Corporation (IFC), a subsidiary of the World Bank Group, for an initial cohort of 15 listed companies.

In line with its strategy of striving for excellence, Tunis Stock Exchange is involved in several projects aimed at making our market more attractive, in particular through:

- The resumption of work on the revision of Law 94-117;
- ESG reporting;
- Proposing new regulatory texts to develop market activities and modernize its governance.

Finally, it is now more necessary than ever to capitalize on the strengths of our financial market and the goodwill of its players to create a new dynamic in order to face the major challenge that is hindering the development of our market. This momentum could be achieved in particular by upgrading regulations to bring them into line with international standards, enabling the market to be expanded with new financial products and further strengthening the stock market culture.

Stock Markets

Around the world

In 2024, global stock market performance was marked by monetary tightening by central banks, weighing on certain markets, as well as geopolitical tensions, notably the war in Ukraine and Sino-American friction. These factors increased market uncertainty and volatility.

Some markets emerged, notably thanks to investments in the energy transition and the reopening of the Chinese economy, stimulating sectors such as clean technology. Markets thus navigated between risks and opportunities, with contrasting regional dynamics.

The Dow Jones index on Wall Street recorded a gain of 12.9% after rising 13.7% in 2023, while the Nasdaq index of technology stocks continued its surge thanks to enthusiasm for artificial intelligence-related stocks, closing the year with a gain of 24.8%.

In 2024, Latin American stock markets performed fairly well. The Argentine stock market recorded an exceptional increase of 172.5%, the Mexican stock market gained 7.3%, the Chilean stock market rose 4.4%, while the Brazilian stock market fell 10% following the record depreciation of the national currency.

In Europe, four markets performed negatively, namely the Polish, Danish, and Finnish stock exchanges, which fell by 11.1%, 7.9%, and 4.3%, respectively, and the Paris stock market fell by 2.1%, mainly due to internal political tensions in France (dissolution of the French parliament) and increased economic pressure.

On other European markets, performance was strong. Frankfurt Stock Exchange performed best with a gain of 18.9%, followed by the Belgian Stock Exchange with a rise of 15% and the Spanish Stock Exchange with a rise of 14.8%.

The Greek, Italian, Dutch, and Norwegian stock exchanges also saw double-digit gains of 13.7%, 12.6%, 11.7%, and 10.7%, respectively.

The Greek, Italian, Dutch, and Norwegian stock exchanges also saw double-digit gains of 13.7%, 12.6%, 11.7%, and 11.4%, respectively.

The London Stock Exchange closed the year with a 5.7% increase.

In Asia, markets performed fairly well thanks to measures to stimulate the Chinese economy.

The Taiwanese, Malaysian, and Japanese stock markets performed best, with gains of 28.8%, 20.9%, and 19.2%, respectively. The Hong Kong and Singapore stock markets recorded gains of 17.7% and 16.2%, respectively. Chinese stock markets returned to growth in 2024, with Shanghai recording a 12.7% increase and Shenzhen recording a 6.5% gain.

The South Korean, Indonesian, and Philippine stock markets underperformed, recording declines of 26.3%, 17.5%, and 1.6%, respectively.

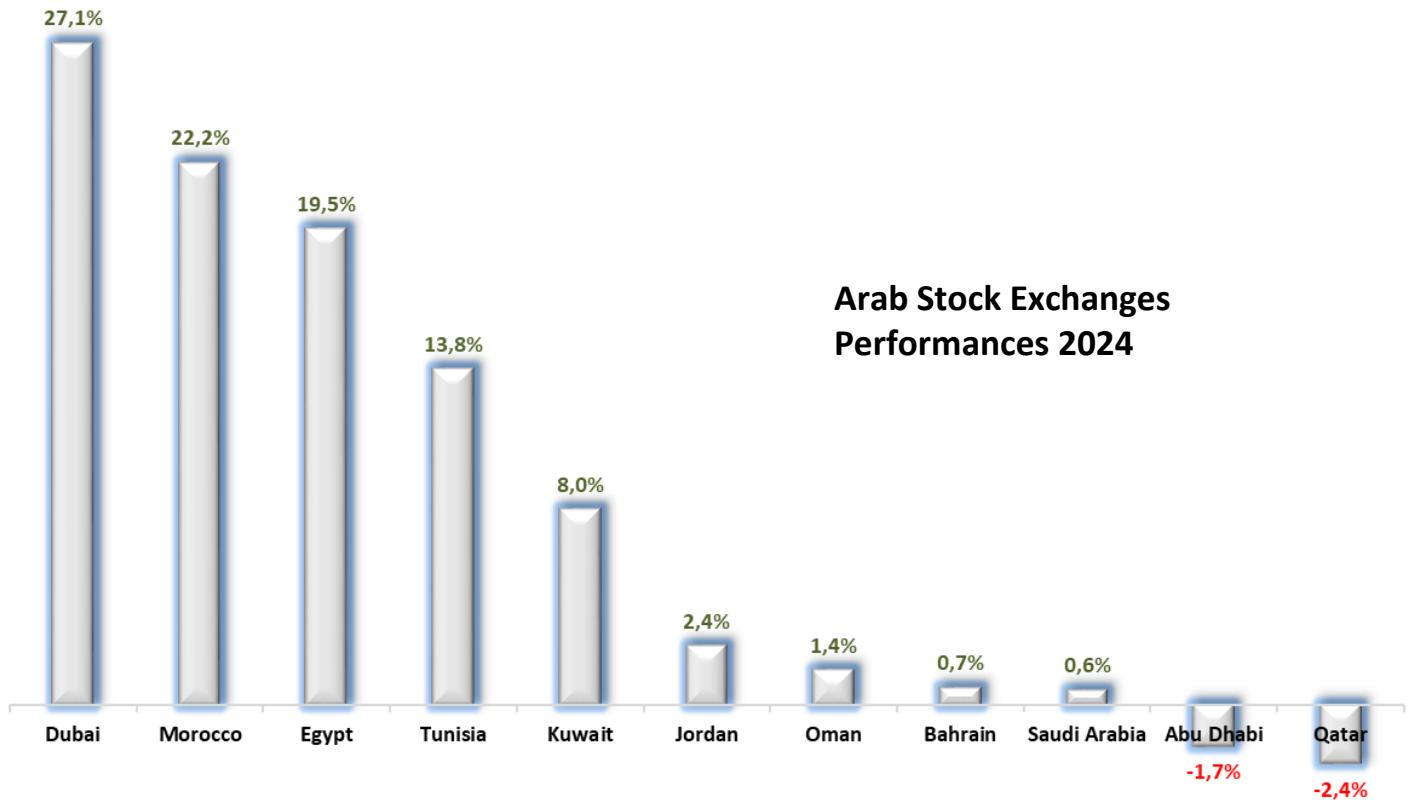

Arab Stock Exchanges

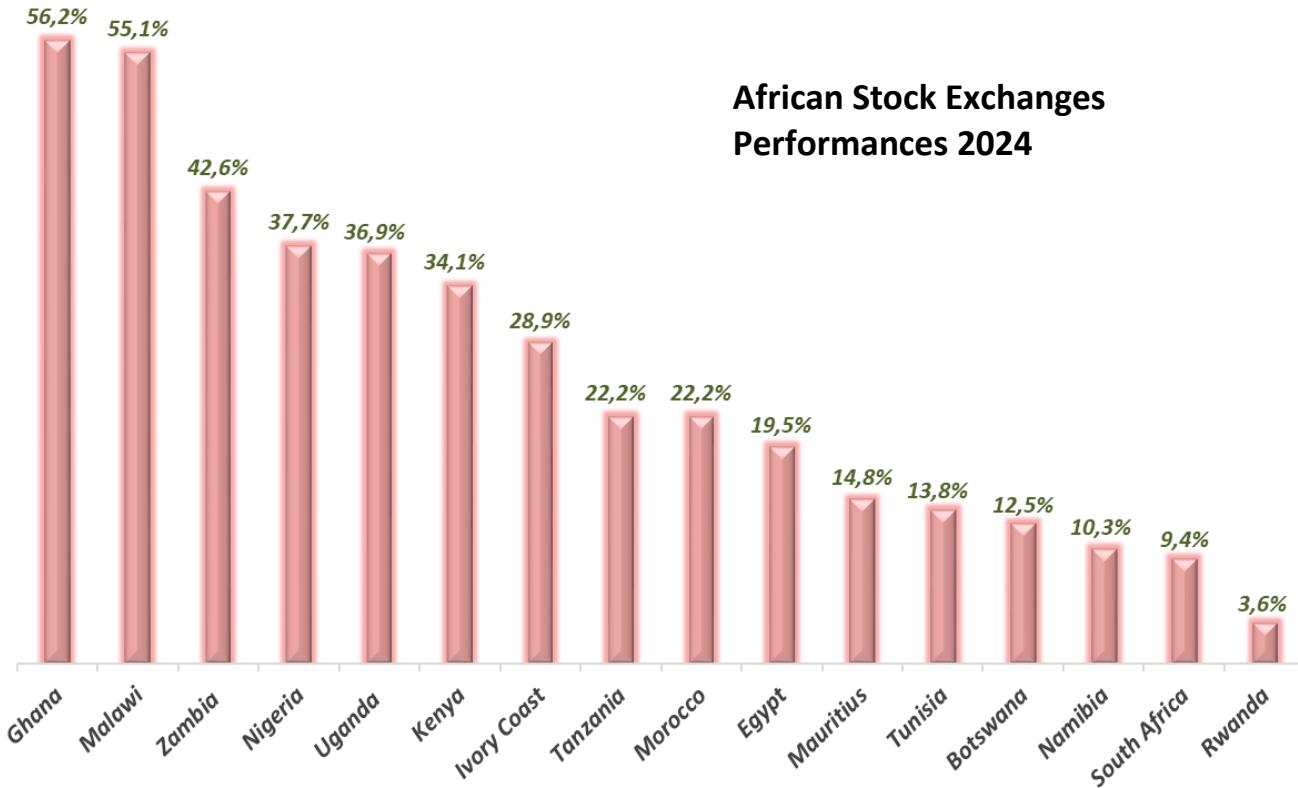

Arab financial markets performed well in 2024, with most markets closing on a positive note, except for the Qatar and Abu Dhabi stock exchanges, which closed down 2.4% and 1.7% respectively.

Dubai Financial Market achieved the best performance with a gain of 27.1%, followed by the Casablanca Stock Exchange with a performance of 22.2%.

African Stock Exchanges

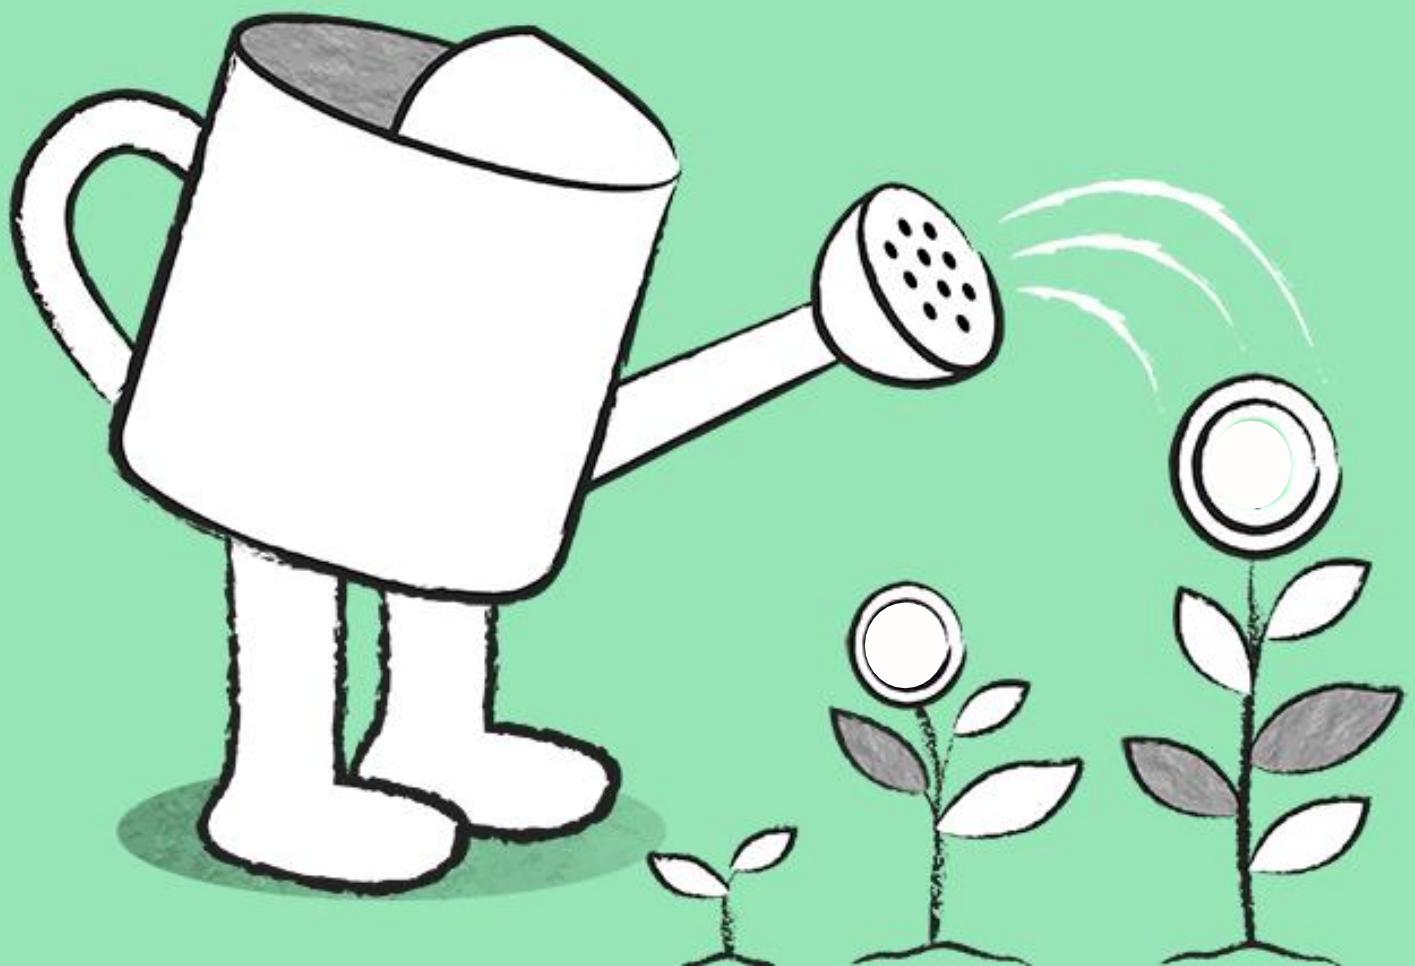

On sub-Saharan African markets, the results for 2024 were positive. The stock exchanges in Ghana, Malawi, and Zambia ended the year with the best performances, up 56.2%, 55.1%, and 42.6%, respectively.

The Regional Stock Exchange (BRVM) and the Egyptian Stock Exchange ended the year with performances of 28.9% and 19.5%, respectively.

ACTIVITIES OF TUNIS STOCK EXCHANGE

The General Context of Stock Market

Quatre ans après les bouleversements provoqués par la pandémie du COVID, à laquelle ont succédé conflits, inflation et liquidité serrée, la croissance économique mondiale donne des signes de stabilisation. Elle n'a cependant pas retrouvé ses niveaux d'avant 2020.

A cet égard, le FMI, dans son dernier rapport paru au mois de janvier 2025, sur les perspectives économiques mondiales, a révisé à la hausse ses estimations de la croissance économique mondiale pour s'établir à 2,7% pour l'année 2024. En outre, le FMI signale que les risques de révision des perspectives sont orientés à la baisse en rapport avec l'incertitude autour des politiques économiques ainsi que la montée des tensions géopolitiques.

Sur le moyen terme, les prévisions de croissance mondiales établies par le FMI, tendent vers une moyenne de 3,1% d'ici 2029 contre une moyenne annuelle historique de 3,8% entre les années 2000 et 2019.

Concernant la croissance aux États-Unis, les estimations tablent sur un niveau de 2,8% en 2024, soit une hausse de 0,2 point de pourcentage par rapport aux prévisions antérieures.

Cette augmentation est tributaire principalement, de la résilience de la consommation des ménages et de l'investissement non résidentiel.

En Europe, principal partenaire de la Tunisie, et après une période prolongée de stagnation, l'économie renoue avec une croissance modeste, tandis que le processus de désinflation se poursuit. Les prévisions de la Commission européenne tablent sur une croissance du PIB de 0,7 % dans la zone euro en 2024. L'activité économique devrait légèrement augmenter pour atteindre 1% en 2025.

Dans l'ensemble des économies en développement, la croissance devrait légèrement flétrir par rapport à 2023, pour s'établir en moyenne à 4% en 2024-2025. Elle devrait s'accélérer dans les pays à faibles revenus, pour atteindre 5% en 2024, contre 3,8% en 2023.

Les estimations de croissance de la Chine sont de 4,9% pour 2024, suite à une révision positive de 0,1 point, et une croissance de 4,1% en 2025 et ce, contre 5,2% réalisée en 2023. Cette réduction traduit la faiblesse persistante du secteur de l'immobilier et la dégradation de la confiance des consommateurs.

The General Context of Stock Market

In Tunisia, according to the National Institute of Statistics (INS), the national economy grew by 1.4% in 2024. This slight recovery was mainly due to growth in agricultural activity (+8.6% compared to a decline of 16.1% a year earlier). The performance of this sector is mainly due to improved olive oil and cereal production. In the same vein, the merchant services sector continued to perform well, thanks to the strong performance of its various branches, particularly accommodation and catering, communications, and transportation.

On the other hand, industrial activity contracted. The sectors most affected were mainly textiles, clothing and leather, and mechanical and electrical industries. This underperformance is largely the result of sluggish manufacturing activity in Europe. In addition, the extractive industries continued to decline during the same period due to lower production in the hydrocarbon and mining sectors.

Inflation, which reached remarkably high levels in recent years, has returned to a downward trend compared to last year. As a result, average inflation for 2024 stood at 7.0%, compared to 9.3% a year earlier. This improvement can be explained by the decline in food prices (+9.4% compared to +14.4%), manufactured goods (+6.7% compared to +8.3%) and service costs (+5.4% compared to +6.7%).

With regard to Tunisia's foreign trade, figures at current prices for 2024 show that exports remained stable, staying at the same level as last year, i.e., 62,077.6 million dinars.

Imports recorded a slight increase of 2.3% to reach a value of 81,005.2 million dinars, compared to 79,146.3 million dinars in 2023.

Thus, the trade deficit stands at (-18,927.6 million dinars) compared to (-17,069 million dinars) last year. In this regard, the coverage rate fell by 1.8 points to 76.6%.

In terms of public debt, according to the Ministry of Finance's report on the provisional results of budget execution at the end of December 2024, outstanding public debt represents 81.2% of GDP for the year 2024, compared to 84.6% in 2023 and 79.8% in 2022. Tunisian external debt represents 46.2% of total debt (55.8% in euros and 31.2% in dollars), which reached 135,032.3 million dinars.

Similarly, according to the report published during the preparation of the state budget for 2025, debt servicing costs will fall by 1.1% in 2025 compared to 2024, amounting to 276 million dinars. As such, the total debt burden is expected to reach 24,690 million dinars, or 13.5% of GDP, divided between 14,297 million dinars (57.9%) in domestic debt and 10,393 million dinars (42.1%) in foreign currency debt for the year 2025.

As for the Tunisian dinar, in terms of annual average, the dinar showed good resilience, depreciating by only 0.2% against the euro and the dollar.

In addition, Tunisia's net foreign exchange reserves showed a slight improvement at the end of the 2024 financial year, reaching 27,332 million dinars, equivalent to 121 days of imports, at the end of 2024, compared to 26,408 million dinars and 120 days at the end of 2023.

Financial market activity in 2024 was characterized by continued resilience, despite the absence of new listings and a difficult economic environment.

This resilience, for the fourth consecutive year, is mainly due to the strong financial performance and good control of profit margins by the majority of listed companies. In this regard, the overall results for the 2023 financial year of the 70 companies that published their annual financial statements, out of a total of 74 listed companies, improved by 10% compared to the 2022 financial year, reaching a total of 2,561 million dinars compared to 2,328 million dinars. The amounts distributed as dividends for the 2023 financial year also increased by 11%, totaling 1,383 million dinars, compared to 1,249 million dinars for 2022.

This performance was confirmed by the half-yearly financial statements for June 2024, which showed that the overall half-yearly results of the 66 listed companies that published their financial statements for the first six months of 2024 were up by a similar amount, 9.4% compared to the same period in 2023, reaching a total of 1,430 million dinars compared to 1,307 million dinars as of June 30, 2023.

Finally, the activity indicators for 2024 for the 71 listed companies that have published their results show an overall increase in revenue of 3.2% compared to 2023, reaching 25.1 billion dinars compared to 24.3 billion dinars.

At the end of 2024, stock market activity closed on a positive note. Tunis Stock Exchange's benchmark index, the Tunindex, rose for the fourth consecutive year, gaining 13.75% after increases of 7.90% in 2023, 14.74% in 2022, and 2.34% in 2021.

Finally, at the end of December 2024, the total amount of listed securities (shares and bonds) issued by listed companies reached 395 million dinars for 14 transactions. This figure is divided between nine bond issues totaling 300 million dinars and five capital increases totaling 95 million dinars.

Efforts to promote the Market

As an important part of its market development strategy, Tunis Stock Exchange continues to be active in promoting and popularizing the financial market, particularly by spreading stock market culture as widely as possible.

The Heart Exchange

Tunis Stock Exchange, in collaboration with SOS Children's Villages and the Banking and Financial Council (CBF), organized the second edition of "Bourse du cœur" (Stock Exchange of the Heart) in support of SOS Children's Villages, under the patronage of the Minister of Family, Women, Children, and the Elderly.

Tunis Stock Exchange also welcomed children from SOS Children's Villages during "Global Money Week" to teach them about its role and how it works.

Reinforcing Stock Market Education Initiatives

With the Professional Entities

The Tunis Stock Exchange and the Tunisian National Bar Association have organized the 14th stock market training session for lawyers.

This action is part of the partnership agreement between the two parties, which aims to familiarize this professional body with the operating mechanisms of the financial market and stock market practices.

More than 100 lawyers took part in this new session, learning about various aspects of the stock market: the regulatory and institutional framework, the procedures for taking companies public, stock market products and their taxation, listing techniques and investor protection mechanisms.

More than 1,500 lawyers belonging to ONAT have attended the various training sessions conducted since the partnership was signed in March 2013
